The solution should utilise and integrate with NHS e-Referral Service, acute and community hospital Patient Administration and Medical record systems and Primary care medical information systems. The solution should utilise a range of quick and simple delivery modes including direct call access to a specialist, ability to send multimedia content (e.g., photographs / documents / scans) and written record of the exchange, with the potential ability to send videos where appropriate. Each mode of delivery should be configurable and adaptable on a specialty basis, with potential for a wider team approach to response. Advice must be made available through this single system which also notifies the requestor when a response is available.
