II.2.4) Description of the procurement

Given the wider economic importance of FE in raising skills levels and providing a passport to opportunity for young people and adults – particularly through the successful delivery of T Levels and apprenticeships – we need sufficient numbers of highly skilled teachers in place to deliver high quality, work relevant skills training. But there is also a very real need for those teachers to possess industry expertise and excellent teaching skills. This is paramount for delivering first-rate FE teaching.

Outline Requirement

The aim of TTF is to increase the number of highly skilled teachers in place to deliver high quality, work relevant skills training by supporting FE providers to recruit and retain new teachers.

TTF seeks to do this by funding FE providers to recruit new teachers. The main components of the programme are:

- i. Training while teaching, which is consistent with FE culture and offers career changers the security of a job and a salary;
- ii. Part-time study, which is a sustainable way of learning while also working in a teaching role, and a Level 5 Diploma in Education and Training (DET), which is the right qualification level;
- iii. Mentoring / work shadowing and a reduced workload in the first year of teaching, to create the capacity and support to train; and

iv. An externally contracted delivery partner to administer funding to providers, provide additional support, including information and advice to promote the programme, and secure take up.

Current Provision

The Education and Training Foundation (ETF) have delivered this programme through three pilot rounds, from 2018/19 to 2021/22 and a fourth round has just been announced. For further information, please see the ETF website. <https://www.et-foundation.co.uk/supporting/support-teacher-recruitment/taking-teaching-further/>

Planned TTF Growth

Given the current shortage of FE teachers, we are developing proposals to continue to deliver the initiative. Rounds 1 and 2 offered places for 150 teachers, and round 3 made 550 places available. Round 4 will make a further 550 places available to the sector. The size and scope of this initiative in the future is expanding in response to participant feedback but the extent of these changes is yet to be confirmed. However, based on current information, we anticipate it could be around 1,000 places in the first year, rising to 4,000 in the third year.
