The outcomes for this element of the Service include developing independence, personal achievements, enjoyment, social skills and friendships, staying safe and managing self and short breaks for carers. Where a CYP Service User does not have personal care needs, then the Supplier in these circumstances will not need to be CQC registered. The CYP will have a range of needs; some of which may include challenging behaviour, moving and handling or medical needs. To provide enabling support, the worker will usually need to have access to suitable transport and / or support the CYP to use public transport. There is currently no immediate requirement for Lot 1 (community enabling support) services. Cases previously on the waiting list for this Lot are being served by BBC's in-house sessional team, although there is likely to be some future requirement in Lot 1, if this team is unable to manage volumes or needs.
