This is a prior information notice (PIN) only: Publication and a call for competition will be conducted once the scope of work is fully defined and approved.

Programme Objective:

The What Works Hub for Global Education will deliver a new platform to support governments who want to transform their education systems in a sustainable way, maximising the impact of education evidence to inform cost effective reforms to benefit all children. The What Works Hub for Global Education will:

- Synthesise and curate the best evidence in ways that governments and practitioners need and commissioning new research that tracks cost-effective interventions to scale.
- Strengthen education and finance ministries' capability to use and contextualise data and evidence, for example through establishing policy labs within Ministries of Education.
- Create a new field in implementation science that produces evidence and supports our partner governments to use a 'diagnose, test, learn and adapt' cycle to take education reform to scale.
