NWL has a responsibility to manage road risk within its own workforce and one of the ways it seeks to achieve this is by monitoring driver behaviour and vehicle use through a system of vehicle telematics.

This service is required to be delivered in a prompt, effective and professional manner to ensure the expectations of the customer are met.

At NWL we currently have a commercial fleet which requires 1105 telematic units. These units also require an associated service level agreement on vehicle hardware/software plus a warranty.
