Description

This tender opportunity is for the provision of in-home usage data and insight relating to eating habits within the home.

The Retail and Consumer Insight (RCI) team offers independent market analysis using AHDB and third-party data. Their goal is to explain shifts in consumer attitudes and behaviour, helping levy payers understand the market and make informed decisions. AHDB currently uses in-home consumption data currently contracted from Worldpanel by Numerator.

How we use in-home data:

The in-home usage data provides greater context into the types of meals eaten in the home but also what types of meal our categories are featuring in. The usage data has been used very heavily with our Market Development team to understand the current consumption profile
