UK Home Office's International Directorate is currently engaged, to provide and manage English language (EL) training to specified police and law enforcement sectors.

EL training will initially comprise two phases:

- Overseas testing and general EL training
- Immersive general EL training in UK

Below sets out the requirements for UK-based EL suppliers, tendering to provide immersive general EL training to learners.

Overseas training partner

British Council (BC) has been selected as the overseas training partner for this programme and a contract is in place. By overseas we mean training in the end clients' home country – the immersive training which forms this procurement is conducting in the UK. This PIN relates exclusively to UK based immersive language training courses conducted in UK language schools in the UK.

Tendering EL suppliers are required to be willing and able to work with BC and other training partners where necessary, to provide a strongly aligned learning experience to learners.

Overseas EL testing and training

Learners selected to undergo EL training will be tested using APTIS, a BC-developed English language proficiency test. The test comprises 5 components (grammar and vocabulary, reading, writing, listening, speaking) with results based on the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR).

Once tested, learners will undergo up to 6 months' fulltime general EL training in home country, and on completion of the programme be retested using APTIS.

Immersive general EL training in UK

On completion of overseas EL training, selected learners who have reached a minimum of CEFR level A2 in final testing, will undergo a period of IELTS in UK.

Following IELTS in UK, returning learners may be retested using APTIS, for benchmarking purposes and evaluation of learner progression.

Outcomes

On completion of 3 months' IELTS:

- Learners at CEFR A2 level on entry, are expected to have progressed to CEFR B1 level (minimum) on completion of studies
- Learners at CEFR B1 level on entry, are expected to have progressed to CEFR B1+ level (minimum) on completion of studies

Accreditation

Tendering EL suppliers are required to hold British Council accreditation (Accreditation UK) for running EL courses in UK, and provide details of their most recent inspection report.

All bidding suppliers' instructors must hold the following accreditations:

- ADVANCED - Cambridge DELTA or Trinity Diploma (These are called TEFL-Q qualifications)
