Section IV. Procedure

IV.1) Description

IV.1.1) Type of procedure

Award of a contract without prior publication of a call for competition in the cases listed below

- The procurement falls outside the scope of application of the regulations

Explanation:

The legislation governing the Contract Modification is the Public Contracts Regulations 2015 (PCR 2015) and Regulation 72 (Modification of contracts during . their term).

For this particular contract modification EA could rely on Reg 72(1)(e).

Regulation 72(1)(e) states; The changes are “not substantial”, and further defines “not substantial” as under Regulation 72(8) of the PCRs as:

- (a) the modification does not render the contract materially different in character;
- (b) the modification does not introduce any conditions which, had they been part of the initial procurement, would have (i) allowed for admission of other candidates than those initially selected; (ii) allowed for the acceptance of a tender other than that originally accepted; or (iii) attracted additional participants in the procurement procedure;
- (c) the modification does not change the economic balance of the contract in favour of the contractor;
- (d) the modification does not extend the scope of the contract considerably; and
- (e) the modification does not replace the contractor that the contract was initially awarded to.

The introduction of the e-Invoicing module to this contract does not:

- (f) render the contract materially different in character – (this is an integral module to most modern Finance and Payment systems);
- (g) it doesn't introduce any new conditions that would have allowed for the admission of other candidates, or, allowed for the acceptance of another tender, or, attracted additional participants in the original procurement procedure;

- (h) the modification value of £213,000.00 represents a very small percentage increase (i.e. 0.7%) to the original contract value;
- (i) the scope of the modification does not extend the scope of the contract considerably (it is a fairly small piece of functionality that is being added to the overall solution); and
- (j) the modification does not replace the contractor that the contract was initially awarded to (the contract remains with Fujitsu).
