II.2.14) Additional information

TWUL appreciates that there may be suppliers that represent a scarce resource and is particularly concerned that these resources, in respect of certain SROs project opportunities described in this notice, should not:

- be subject to an exclusivity arrangement with an Applicant/Bidder in the procurement process to the detriment of competition; and
- be subject to sub-contract terms or obligations that threaten the ability of another

Consultant to deliver its own contract.

Accordingly, during the procurement process, Applicants/Bidders are asked not to enter any exclusivity arrangements with a potential subcontractor or supplier.

If the Applicant/Bidder has doubts or uncertainties about whether any arrangements with other suppliers would be viewed as falling within the above categorisation, they should seek guidance from TWUL before entering any exclusivity arrangement with a subcontractor or supplier.

If despite this request an Applicant/Bidder enters an exclusive arrangement with a supplier, to the detriment of other Applicants/Bidders such that competition is adversely impacted, TWUL reserves the right to omit the procurement of these resources through the procurement process; to enter into arrangements directly with the relevant supplier; and to require the successful Applicant/Bidder to enter into subcontracts with the relevant supplier.

Applicants/Bidders who have concerns about the state of a market or who encounter difficulties engaging with suppliers for specific resources, should raise a query with TWUL as TWUL cannot deal with the issue if it is not disclosed.

TWUL reserves the right to procure any of the services listed below as separate contracts and/or frameworks as part of separate and independent procurement events.

TWUL is working with several partners, including other water companies to develop and deliver the SROs. Furthermore, depending on the commercial and procurement strategies for delivery of these projects, TWUL will reserve the right to novate contracts, subject to the Consultant's agreement, to partner organisations or delivery partners.
