Key Criteria.

Integration, collaboration, and service sustainability (Weighting 10%)

The provider clearly demonstrates how the Emotional Wellbeing Team is fully integrated within SN team;-enabling a holistic assessment of children's needs and providing holistic support-Utilising the use of an existing standardised referral and assessment pathway, enabling those who are referred to the SN to be effectively triaged to the most appropriate support.

This provides an efficiency saving as well as ensuring that only referrals appropriate for Emotional Wellbeing support are shared with the Emotional Wellbeing Team. Those for age 8 to 10 which previously would have been directly referred to the EWT but not suitable are then able to receive support without being redirected/rereferred ensuring quick access to appropriate services, creating a smoother and more well recieved transition for CYP and their families and ensuring that the most appropriate support is provided.-The use of shared records and assessment forms with the school nursing ensures an individual does not need to repeat their story, something which individuals have feedback to us as important. It also enables staff to better understand children's needs without requiring multiprofessional meetings/data sharing agreements.-Collaboration with the LD nurses ensures more inclusive and accessible support is available-The team also align with the national i-THRIVE framework which we are implementing across

Kent and Medway.-The team can also utilise existing relationships within schools and local knowledge such as from the health assessments/referral data to inform and support service delivery.-Incorporation within the school nursing also enables the EWT offer to be available within ChatHealth and parentline to support easy access to the service.

Overall the provider demonstrated a clear overview of how the integration enables a more holistic package of care as well as providing greater opportunities for collaborative innovation.

Quality and innovation (Weighted 40%)

MHSDS and supports outcome measurements. The response clearly outlines the use of goal identification evidencing how support is outcome informed as well as providing clear next steps for individuals.-Needs led; The triage process ensures effective identification of needs and risks and the response includes examples of which evidence based interventions are included.-Proactive, Preventative & Promotion: The use of an experienced professional to undertake triaging is also something included within the national i-THRIVE framework assessment tool.

Page 9 to 10

The response also outlines the use of targeted group sessions linked to the school nurse wider schools support approach outlining a commitment to taking a proactive, preventative approach.-Partnership Working: The response also highlights the partnership working of other professionals and holistic assessment-Shared Decision Making: the response clearly outlines how the service take a person centred approach to ensure support best suits the individuals needs

Increasing access: The response highlights how they support while waiting/during transition helping to ensure timely access to care and support

In addition, it outlined how the support aligns with our community wide application of PBS.

The response also demonstrated a thorough process is in place to support staff and those they support ensuring safeguarding compliance. It is evident that there are clear processes which assess and manage the associated risks and ensure that there is a good level of support in place through supervision to ensure that staff are well supported. There is also a dedicated team, training and support in place to ensure compliance with national legislation and local policy as well as active engagement with MSCB to ensure that children, young people, families/carers and staff are effectively safeguarded.

Improving access, reducing health inequalities, and facilitating choice (20%)

The provider outlined demonstratable experience of triaging, assessing and supporting high demand with clear communication channels for patients. The service are flexible during school holidays, outlining a clear understanding of patient's priorities and utilising time effectively to ensure wait times do not increase as a result of this. The response also outlines the services ability to adapt to high demand periods alongside managing risks and safeguarding concerns.

Also evidenced is clear communication to manage expectations and next steps as well as signposting to support while waiting to received support, in addition to providing case continuity where possible to enhance relationship development. The service evidenced how they use holistic assessment to ensure a needs led approach rather than service/diagnostic/pathway led approach, which aligns with the THRIVE framework as well as evidencing good use of partnership working with the referrer through shared care plans where able to do so which is a valuable asset. The response also outlines good use of theme
