Weyside Urban Village is an exciting regeneration project that will bring new homes, industrial uses, and community facilities to Guildford. By building on brownfield land (previously used land) the site protects the Green Belt surrounding the borough. The delivery of approximately 1,500 high-quality homes will play a crucial role in helping to meet Guildford's housing need. The scheme provides new state of the art infrastructure including a new sewage treatment plant and a new council depot, to be relocated from their existing locations to near locations within the Slyfield Industrial Estate. As part of this development a new local centre is being created which include: • Up to 1800 sqm of retail space (including a convenience store). • Healthcare and community facilities • A nursery • Flexible employment uses, such as offices and workshop In addition, new industrial uses are being developed in an extension to the Slyfield Industrial Estate. Outline planning consent for the masterplan was granted in March 2022, under the application reference

20/P/02155.
