Description

In 2026, the Festival turns 70 and we are taking this opportunity to refresh the look and feel of the BFI London Film Festival brand after several years iterating on our current visual identity. We continue to be excited by the potential of the current 'cascade' iconography, but we are not committed to retaining it as the core iconic reference point for the Festival and would like to explore other creative propositions. This identity will be the basis for all branding and promotional collateral produced for the Festival and will be used to engage the broadest possible B2C and B2B audiences in London, around the UK and internationally.
