Zero Waste Scotland required a single Supplier to provide strategic communications and support services for the development of a communications strategy and associated campaign collateral to assist Scottish local authorities undertaking a major change of their kerbside collection service.

There will be a predominant focus on Scottish Local Authorities, however Communications and support services may also include communication support to businesses , third sector organisations and Zero Waste Scotland itself.

Zero Waste Scotland will offer specialist support to Local Authorities for a variety of support needs including but not exclusive to, planning, co-ordination and delivery of a communications strategy for implementing a major service change, including the development of relevant supporting collateral. These services will be in relation to Service Change at both kerbside and communal level, modification or new household waste recycling centres, campaigns to help increase household recycling and participation rates, or to reduce recycling contamination. Support is offered to assist the development of consistent and effective communications designed to strategically motivate, inform and engage householders and internal audiences.

It is anticipated that this specialist support will be made available for up to ten local authorities/organisations per year however there maybe occasions when this number is exceeded.
