II.2.4) Description of the procurement

The impact of the Covid-19 pandemic has been felt by businesses across the globe. The British Council is not immune to this impact and needs to: streamline processes, use more digital tools and introduce greater standardisation to be more efficient and effective. The British Council's Strategy 2025 lays out these desired goals for the organisation by the year 2025. To enable this change, a Global Transformation Programme (GTP) has been constituted which will touch all areas of the organisation in some shape or form. Professional Services (PS) Transformation is one of the workstreams within the Global Transformation Programme (GTP) and is a key enabler of this change for the organisation. The corporate functions of Finance, Human Resources, Digital and Technology (D&T), Procurement, Marketing and Estates are within the scope of the PS Transformation programme (others may be added subsequently). A key lever being explored for this transformation is to partner with a third-party company with expertise in these areas to deliver some aspects of professional services. Currently, four key global professional services functions (including their corresponding operations delivered from the shared service centre in India) have been identified for this.

- Human Resources (HR)
- Finance
- Procurement
- Digital and Technology (D&T)

Overview of the workstreams:

Human Resources (HR): Human Resources currently incorporates approximately 300 FTEs and operates with a mix of centralised (including shared services) and regional/in-country support to the organisation. As part of this anticipated procurement exercise, British Council HR function would seek to onboard a service provider who is fully integrated into the global HR function to enable the function to achieve its strategic objectives.

Finance: The finance function is organised across 8 regions with c.600+ FTEs, comprising approximately 140 entities with 30 subsidiaries operating alongside our branches; in some countries there is a dual entity structure. The finance function is structured along functional lines, with the aim of embedding the 'three lines of defence' model at its heart, clearly separating the financial control (first line) and risk and assurance (second line) functions, with the aim to ensure the integrity of our results and the strength of our controls. Many regions have clustered finance, with remote delivery and we have a shared service centre operating from India. Procurement: Procurement operations in the British Council cover a wide variety of activity, and covers all areas of operations, from offices, to Exam's delivery and Teaching Centres, and Arts and Culture activities. As a function, Procurement currently incorporates approximately 90+ FTEs and operates in 5 Regions: United Kingdom, South Asia, East Asia, Sub-Saharan Africa, and Middle East & Northern Africa (MENA). There are an additional 3 regions (EU, Wider Europe, and Americas) without regional procurement cover. Whilst these 3 regions are subject to the global procurement policy, procurement events are managed within their own organisational structure. Digital and Technology (IT Services): British Council digital and technology function requires the provision of third-party services and staff augmentation for its global IT support services from a Service Provider who is fully integrated into their global D&T directorate. As a directorate, Digital & Technology currently incorporates approximately 400 FTEs across Digital, Global Information Services (GIS), and Information Governance and Risk Management (IGRM). This headcount is mostly concentrated within the UK, India and Poland, while a minor spread within the rest of the world.
