II.2.4) Description of the procurement

Level one Supported Living with Accommodation for people with a learning disability and/or autism.

The key characteristics of supported living with accommodation are;

Supported living with accommodation refers to any housing scheme where accommodation based and community-based support, and sometimes care services are provided

Personal and/or health care services as required

The service users are eligible for care services from the Council and have a care package

The landlord issues a tenancy agreement and rent is covered through the tenant's resources, which may include statutory benefits

CQC registration as domiciliary care where personal care is provided, including the prompting and supervision of personal care activities.

Core support: refers to the support that all individuals living in a setting use.

Flexi support is provided for 'additional support needs' - when an individual needs more, or different, support to what is provided in the core. As required under the Care Act 2014 individuals will have the right to choose the provider of their flexi support, it may or may not be provided by the same provider as the core support.
