There are over 80,000 prisoners in custody within HMPPS; all of which must have access to three meals per day.

The current delivery model ensures delivery of products direct to prison kitchens where prison staff and prisoners prepare and cook the daily menu options. We are looking to engage with suppliers to understand how the future delivery model can operate to meet the below strategic aims:

The service needs to be able to provide sufficient food for 3 meals a day for each prisoner as well as provisions for staff and visitors that are nutritious and cater to all cultural/ religious/ dietary requirements.

The service must provide food supply to all public prisons, now and over the course of the contract. Private prisons should have the option to draw from the contract as needed.

Food ordered needs to be distributed in line with the necessary security and regime requirements. This includes requirements such as delivery in specific prison gate opening times, no contraband onboard delivery vehicles (e.g. alcohol), and restrictions on vehicle cameras etc.

The service needs to be reliable and able to respond to changing demands, including a growing prison population, operational events and changing meal plans.

Products ordered need to be of good quality and value for money within financial constraints, whilst also aligning to prison service specifications.

We are asking interested providers to complete the following questionnaire:
