II.2.4) Description of the procurement

While the University of Birmingham carries a substantially scaled operation for catering and events to manage the 35,000+ students, with the potential to expand on Edgbaston Campus to 50,000 over the next 10 years and 5,000+ staff that are accessing the campus at any time, there is a requirement to augment that existing operation with an appropriately skilled and qualified catering and event workforce specifically for hospitality and events and when needed covering Inhouse, branded sites, such as Costa and Starbucks along with the associated culinary team to support the smooth running of the University.

Specifically, the recruitment agencies will be required to:

- collaborate with the University and related project teams to develop a robust staffing plan and to drive efficiency wherever possible.

- to cover our business-as-usual activities such as sickness and vacancy cover in our outlets.
- have a bank of trained candidates, to cover for short- and long-term placements.
- Our events can vary in size from circa 50 guests to in excess of 500. We require a skilled workforce who can deliver a formal dinner and drinks service and who are trained to the appropriate level in Food Safety Legislation.
- We operate within a very demanding environment where we host events in an assortment of venues. We need the support of an agency, who can supply quality, trained team members who are used to servicing formal and VIP style service, to protect the reputation of the university.
- We require a booking system that allows us to clearly identify, which of the bank of staff are available to work on the event, and a process that allows us to highlight those team members, who have worked with us on previous occasions, and we deem to be skilled and preferred candidates.
- It is important that we can track the finances of each event, therefore it is it's important that we have the ability to track the financial costs associated with each booking. It is key that the successful agency can provide evidence of training and be available on large events to book staff in, ensuring that everyone scheduled arrives and make contingency plans for any no shows.
- Leverage their existing specialist database and capability to recruit an appropriately talented team who can deliver the services required.
- to assist with the coordination of candidates for training and onboarding plans, accommodation planning and staff welfare planning
- act as the point of contact for accreditation related to candidates under their banner to ensure data accuracy and compliance with all data protection regulations.
- manage the administration and payroll of all staff being employed under their company, be they individuals or sole-entities, and to consolidate the payroll into an invoice with the required substantiation to the University of Birmingham for ease of processing.
- Be a knowledgeable resource that contributes to the overall aspiration to deliver quality services as part of the event at the University of Birmingham through active communication, a sense of partnership and business acumen.
