II.2.4) Description of the procurement

Lincolnshire Admission Avoidance and Discharge Service (LAADS) will be a health and social care service procurement seeking suitable provision of health and social care support services. It will respond to requirements of service users by providing packages of care in line with the service specification and service key performance indicators to avoid unnecessary hospital admissions and support hospital discharge of patients through domestic care and support provision. The provider will also be expected to facilitate care plans in the community and access to other services where individuals need this support.

The service will deliver short term packages of care as support interventions to reduce hospital admissions. The service response team will provide timely and responsive support to people who have been assessed as needing short term support or further assessment within their own home, domestic environment or other discharge residence destination, in line with Home First and Hospital Discharge Guidance.

The key requirement of this service is to support a reduction of admissions to hospital and provide support to allow people to remain at home during an episode of ill health or where current care provision becomes unavailable through the provision of individualised packages of care in their own home. The service may also be required to provide short-term packages of care to support those who are medically optimised to allow them to be discharged from hospital at the earliest point. Urgent Community Response provision is also being considered in relation to this service, wider health and social system service reviews and may be a consideration for service development.

LAADS complements a number of commissioned services within the local health and social care economy as part of an integrated care system. LAADS will be utilised where an immediate need for a package of care (health, social or both) is required and an alternative service cannot provide the necessary support in the immediate short term time frame required.

Providers may wish to research and consider current national Home First and Hospital Discharge Guidance in relation to this service in preparation to responding to the invitation to tender for this contract opportunity.
