II.1.4) Short description

The Ministry of Justice (MoJ) is launching a procurement process for the provision of electronic monitoring services (EMS), principally across England and Wales but with some limited service provision in Northern Ireland and Scotland.

EMS are currently used to facilitate the curfew of a subject, the majority given either a Community Order, Court Bail Order or released on licence (collectively referred to as 'Orders'). The execution of EMS is governed by the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000, the Power of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000, the Criminal Justice Act 2003 and the Criminal Justice and Immigration Act 2008.

MDSS is a service which will be delivered under one national contract for all monitoring devices and supporting systems.

MDSS includes packaging various monitoring device related functions together, which will include:

the provision of all monitoring devices (location monitoring, radio frequency, alcohol monitoring and non-fitted devices) ("Devices") based on demand the systems and functions underpinning the delivery of the Devices, including mobile network provision application development and operation including incident resolution and release

management

server and network supply and support;

specific capabilities in connection with Devices:

configuration and repair

failure root cause identification installation and configuration training investigating tampering.

II.2.4) Description of the procurement

The successful supplier will be awarded a contract to deliver MDSS nationally. The contract will run for an initial period of 6 years with an option to extend for a further 2 years.

This is a critical service for the MoJ requiring the Supplier to develop a strategic partnership with the MoJ to support the development of the Device market, drive product innovation, change and the delivery of continuous improvement in product delivery over the life of the contract.

The Supplier will need to collaborate with the Field Monitoring Service (FMS) supplier to deliver various Device related functions together.

The supplier will be required to ensure that MDSS provides a continuous supply of all Devices and systems to support EMS users.

Currently, c15k individuals a year are subject to EMS and volumes are expected to increase throughout the duration of the contract. From the start of the contract in 2024 the supplier must be able to provide the following Devices and systems:

GPS Tags

RF tags

Non-fitted Devices

Transdermal Alcohol Monitoring Devices

Remote Breath Alcohol Monitoring Devices

The MoJ may, during the term of the contract, add to or amend the scope of EMS so volumes and values expressed in this notice are indicative only and might be subject to change.
