II.2.4) Description of the procurement

The current contact centre technology (Cisco Call Manager) was implemented in 2013 as part of a wider Voice and Data project. It is a Cisco product that is fully hosted and managed by a third party. The solution no longer meets Anchor's business needs and is no longer aligned with Anchor's technology strategy.

Additionally, in response to the pandemic a cloud telephony solution, Ring Central, was quickly implemented to support homeworking.

This project seeks to procure and implement a new solution to reduce the number of telephony platforms within Anchor, that will be able to support the future organisational needs of Anchor, with the housing business being a priority and allow Anchor to maximise its investments in technology through a platform that will seamlessly integrate with other telephony and customer focussed applications.

Anchor's current inbound/outbound communication methods are independent of each other, with no single overall view of customer interaction. A new modern platform will give this capability, with the ability to expand and add other methods of communication through the omni-channel functionality as Anchor enhances its customer service offering.

Anchor will also be embarking on a project to address the overall telephony platform moving to Microsoft Teams and expect the successful supplier to be in a position to support the new platform in due course - please note that it isn't part of this procurement.
