II.2.4) Description of the procurement

To sustain Operational Capability, the UK's Armed Forces enlist annually in the region of 18,000 to 22,000 (Regular and Reserve) new recruits from the UK and the Commonwealth. The Armed Forces Recruiting Programme (AFRP) is responsible for delivering a single, common, tri-Service (tS) recruiting process for the Armed Forces. The AFRP is mandated to deliver the right quality and quantity of recruits into training to achieve single Service (sS) workforce demands. The AFRP places the candidate at the heart of the recruiting experience whilst delivering a tS Recruiting Operating Model (ROM) that is agile and able to dynamically respond to future Defence requirements. The recruiting process must deliver an inclusive, engaging and motivating experience that fulfils the needs of candidates and maximises the conversion of eligible candidates into successful recruits.

A Recruitment Strategy & Governance function will translate the Defence People Strategy and sS workforce priorities into a clear, coherent, forward looking tS end-to-end Recruitment Strategy. The Strategy will set the future direction, deliver the right inflow of candidates, and shape and manage a culture of innovation.

The Marketing Solution will collaboratively deliver optimised campaigns and content through channels tailored to the target audience, whilst maintaining the brand identity of each of the single Services. Marketing strategy and plans shall be implemented that attract and retain in the recruitment process a broad and diverse candidate pool, possessing the characteristics, qualifications and skills in sufficient volume and at the right time as required by the Armed Forces.

A personalised, inclusive and supportive Contact function shall keep candidates fully informed from first point of contact through to onboarding. A positive candidate experience will be engendered by appropriately tailored contact that nurtures, inspires and motivates the candidate. The Contact function will be continuously improved through feedback to and from the candidate.

Candidate assessment will be efficient, effective and consistent in its delivery of a series of assessment, some of which will be defined by the Authority, to determine candidate suitability. This function will accurately assess and direct candidates to the widest possible opportunities within the Armed Forces whilst upholding sS standards for entry.

The Digital Solution will be the core enabler to a candidate centric experience from Expression of Interest to recruitment onboarding. Candidates will receive timely and personalised communications whilst integrating with key MOD systems. Exploitation of Management and Business Information will enable data driven insights and decision making for performance management and continuous improvement. The Digital Solution shall meet with Government and MOD ICT policy, MOD accreditation criteria and additional Government and MOD assurance gates for large programmes.

All three sS are looking to transform their recruiting operations over the next two to three years and have given commitment for alignment and coherence by March 2024.

The contract duration will consist of a transitional period plus an initial seven years full operational period with an option for a further three years.

The estimated contract value is in the range of £1,000,000,000 to £1,750,000,000 inclusive of the operational extension period of up to three years.

The Prospectus is available in the DSP as per Additional Information of this Contract Notice.

AFRP is a Defence Small and Medium sized Enterprises Pathfinder Programme with a commitment to maximising SME engagement. The commercial delivery model has been designed to encourage SME involvement at the heart of service delivery. In line with Government guidance released in September last year and June of this year, the Programme will consider social value and sustainable procurement throughout the procurement process and tender evaluation, ensuring AFRP adds value to not just our candidates but also to the wider society.

The Small and Medium-sized Enterprise Action Plan 2019-2022 was published to explain how Defence will improve procurement spend with SMEs, by working with major suppliers to remove barriers and improve access to opportunities. To help deliver our vision of making defence a place where smaller suppliers want to work, the Ministry of Defence has set a target that 25% of our procurement spend will go to SMEs by 2022.
