The Services will:

- Provide a skilled staff team where support workers are recovery focussed and deliver support according to the principles of psychologically informed environments (PIE) and trauma-informed care (TIC)

- Support people to develop their ability to do things for themselves and to develop the skills necessary to move on to lower support accommodation or independent living
- Deliver flexible levels of support with the agility to provide more intensive support when needed and increase the potential for long term recovery
- Create an environment that facilitates access to employment, training, education and wider cultural, faith-based and community activities in line with individual preferences and goals
- Provide an empowering service culture that enables service users to increase their confidence, assertiveness and awareness and build links in the local community
- Work collaboratively with care coordinators, clinicians, and other relevant professionals and agencies, in order to ensure holistic and coordinated support for the individual.
- Create a supported living environment to enable people to recover and develop the capacity to live more independently in their communities whilst managing risks associated with residents with a forensic history, where applicable.

The Services will not offer permanent accommodation. The services will form part of the care pathway as service users progress on their recovery journey towards more permanent forms of housing or living. The Service Provider must make this clear to service users and discuss move-on with them from the earliest appropriate point in the placement.

Length of stay will be based on evidenced service user need rather than an arbitrarily specified period, however an ambition of the service should be a length of stay of approximately 2 years, whilst still considering the individual needs and circumstances surrounding move on for service users. The Service Provider will support service users to move on as soon as they are ready to live in the identified next level of accommodation or supported living. The Service Provider will regularly review readiness to move-on – and barriers to move-on – and ensure that the residents Support Plan optimises move-on outcomes for service users.
