- organisational training content hosted, delivered, and tracked.
- training administration automated.
- learner engagement and participation monitored.
- CPD records held; and
- data stored for reporting (including statutory) purposes.

Having a LMS is also a fundamental pillar of the employee experience and an area that can contribute significantly to employee engagement and improve our ability to grow our own talent and retain key skills.

The reporting and recording functions are a key management tool in the LMS, enabling managers to monitor compliance with mandatory and statutory training. Reporting also enables the monitoring of access to development opportunities to ensure they are fair and don't disadvantage any group of people and is a key tool in workforce and succession planning activity.

Crucially, LMS reporting tools support managers, directorates, and schools where there is an inspection requirement e.g., Ofsted / CQC to evidence training undertaken. The tools should also ensure that key information required for Freedom of Information requests, Subject Access Requests, investigations, and insurance compliance, mitigate the risk to Portsmouth City Council.

The LMS should also provide our registered professions e.g., Social Workers, Occupational Therapists, Teachers with a single place to record their continual professional development

(CPD), Key to Portsmouth City Council's Workforce and OD Strategy, the LMS should support delivery of a smooth employee onboarding experience through role specific induction pathways, ability to act on personal development plans and alignment to career pathways all of which are central to delivering our priorities of retention and development of our workforce.

The LMS should automate course bookings and course registers; record attendance, send out reminders, confirmations, and evaluations. The LMS must also enable partner agencies and those without access to the Council network to access training in a convenient way on any device.
