- Encouraging and enabling families to help themselves through the provision of effective information and developing the capability of communities, to support families without the need for intervention.
- Wherever possible, our services will work in smaller neighbourhood localities to build networks of support
- Engaging with children and families, using their views to shape the programme
- Providing a rigorous approach to the quality and impact of services funded (which is continuously monitored) and using funding in the best possible way.

SMBC recognises that play has a valuable role to play in increasing children's confidence, self-esteem and social interactions. Reducing segregation within communities and contributing to the development of social capital, by providing communities with a focus for informal networks of family support
