The service will support or have a pathway for all individuals affected by crime, the definition of a crime will have a lower threshold than police forces as it will include all levels of ASB and where an individual is in need the service will endeavour to find a pathway to assist them.

The overall aim of the service is to enable victims of crime to 'cope and recover' with the impact of the crime and to recover from the harm experienced in the shortest possible time. The purpose of the Victims Support Service is to ensure the individual affected by crime receives the service they want. This may be to offer advice and support within the service or to offer a referral and assessment approach for victims to access specialised advice, support and assistance as well as improve their health and well-being and their experience of the criminal justice system.
