Scope

Description

We are seeking an organisation to deliver 26 educational articles per year as part of a genomics education package for the entire NHS workforce. These articles will provide timely educational summaries of the latest applications of genomics in healthcare, forming the introductory rung of our 'ladder of learning' educational strategy. Key Requirements: Content Development: The supplier will manage the editorial process from developing briefs to writing and editing the articles. Topic Planning: A list of proposed topics, ensuring a diverse range of article types and areas, will be agreed upon with the supplier in advance on a monthly or quarterly basis. The order of topics may shift to accommodate new developments in genomics. Quality Assurance: Our in-house team will quality-check the educational articles and prepare them for publishing. This is an exciting opportunity to contribute to the ongoing education of the NHS workforce in the rapidly evolving field of genomics. We look forward to collaborating with a supplier who shares our commitment to high-quality, impactful education.
