II.1.4) Short description

York and Scarborough Teaching Hospitals NHS FT's YorSexual Health (YSH) in partnership with City of York County Council & North Yorkshire County Council (NYCC) is scoping recommissioning aspects of its Sexual Health Service for our most at risk populations (MARPs). This is to place a stronger emphasis on access to provision in localities, and more choice on how and when people access sexual health care. The MARP population to support:• People misusing drugs• LGBTQ community• Sex workers• Vulnerable Young people (including those at risk of sexual exploitation & looked after children)• Those from ethnic minority backgrounds (including travellers)We welcome engagement from providers to discuss proposed models for supporting most at risk populations and to help us consider how services could be delivered in the future. We are keen to utilise market expertise to commission a high quality service and we are particularly interested in working with organisations that can innovate.

II.2.4) Description of the procurement

The Trust is looking to create an open framework of insourced and outsourced providers for the delivery of Sexual Health Services to complement in-house services and to support the clinical team. Provisionally the intention is for the framework to be split into a number of lots with the final list of lots to be decided based on service user and supplier/provider engagement. This recognises the very different needs of each MARP group across a wide geographical locality.

Section VI. Complementary information

VI.3) Additional information

The Trust is looking to create an open framework of insourced and outsourced providers for the delivery of Sexual Health Services to complement in-house services and to support the clinical team. Provisionally the intention is for the framework to be split into a number of lots with the final list of lots to be decided based on service user and supplier/provider engagement. This recognises the very different needs of each MARP group across a wide geographical locality. Those who wish to tender may bid for one or more lots (and requested to consider the requirements for each lot individually) by submitting separate quality, social value and price submissions for each lot. We look forward to hearing from you and engaging with you.
