II.1.4) Short description

Ordnance Survey (OS) is the national mapping agency for Great Britain, and a world-leading geospatial data and technology organisation. As a reliable partner to government, business and citizens across Britain and the world, OS helps its customers in virtually all sectors improve quality of life. By being at the forefront of geospatial capability we recognise the need to attract and recruit the right talent to the business. With the local market being competitive for technical talent, we recognise the need to partner with specialist recruitment agencies to support us in our approach to hiring the right capabilities and skills. We're looking for recruitment agencies to work alongside us, understand our business and what we do and act on our behalf when required, to recruit great people. A specialism driven PSL with trusted agency suppliers means we work with agencies that know and understand their markets and can subsequently support us now and, in the future, grow as a business.
