Description

Wolverhampton City Council are conducting a Preliminary Market Test for Smart Building Technology, the Council would like to look at the costs and benefits of installing smart building technologies across its estate. These technologies can enhance energy efficiency, provide real-time monitoring capabilities, and support the Council's broader objectives under local, national, and international climate action frameworks.

This preliminary market engagement seeks to identify all the options available to the Council.

Interested suppliers are invited to participate by completing a questionnaire which is available at the link in this advert. This will be used for information-gathering purposes and will help the Council understand the current market offerings and innovations.

The Council may decide to progress with demonstrations or discussions with suppliers following the closing date. If you would like to participate, please complete the Preliminary Market Engagement Questionnaire which is available using the following link
