Description

Location: Land at Morriston Hospital, Swansea, Wales

Purpose: To enhance health and well-being for staff, patients and the wider community through regenerative agriculture by growing vegetables for schools in Wales as part of the Welsh Veg in Schools initiative and vegetable boxes for the wider community, fostering community engagement and promoting environmental education.

Focus: Addressing food and nutritional security, biodiversity loss, climate change and supporting a shift toward regenerative farming practices.

Vision: To become an exemplar of regenerative, health-focused community farming, aligned with Welsh Government policies and wider Sustainable Development goals.

Ambition: Demonstrating how partnership with the SBUHB the Welsh Public Sector can collectively strive towards net zero by 2030 whilst increasing our resilience to the impacts of climate change.
