Scope

Description

The London Borough of Hackney (The Council) is currently undertaking a commissioning programme to determine future delivery options for its Parking and Markets ICT Systems.

The Council would like to understand from leading providers how these requirements might best be met and is, therefore, carrying out a soft market testing exercise to engage in early informal dialogue, before any formal procurement takes place.

The Council is exploring options for the provision of new ICT systems to support the delivery of its Parking and Markets services, ensuring they are fit for both current and future needs. The goal is to implement a solution(s) that is user-centric, resilient, and capable of evolving
