Description

In March 2025, Historic England published its evaluation of the £95 million High Street Heritage Action Zones (HSHAZ) programme. We have an opportunity to build on this work by commissioning a data journalist to examine existing data and evidence and present it in a way that is engaging and impactful for a wide public audience. This project seeks to test if, and how, data journalism might be applied to the data generated through the HSHAZ programme and its evaluation.
